Description	The Public Treasury Fund by the Ministry of Finance in Libya supports various energy efficiency and renewable energy projects, especially in remote and underserved areas. This includes funding solar panel installations for off-grid locations, such as rural homes, desert pastoral wells, and health centers. The program provides subsidies to beneficiaries, such as university students, rural residents, and public institutions. It aims to enhance energy access, build capacity, and promote sustainable development through renewable energy technologies in collaboration with entities like the Renewable Energy Authority of Libya (REAOL).
